

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS—SPECIAL ISSUE:

“Proceedings of the 14th Biennial WAFWA Deer and Elk Workshop”

Do you study deer and elk in western North America? Did you recently attend and share your work in an oral or poster presentation at the 14th Biennial WAFWA Deer and Elk Workshop?

The Biennial WAFWA Deer and Elk Workshop brings together biologists from governments, universities, tribes, non-governmental organizations, and beyond to share research and discuss common challenges to conservation of deer and elk across western North America. Information shared during this biennial meeting is invaluable to conservation and management. This Special Issue of California Fish and Wildlife will serve as a conduit for archiving the important work, discussions, and scientific advances shared during the 14th Biennial WAFWA Deer and Elk Workshop.

CFWJ accepts the following manuscripts:

- Original research papers or notes that present novel research or techniques
- Review papers
- Commentaries or Essays that provide well-argued and well-documented personal perspectives
- Book reviews on recent books that have been published on the topic

Publication Timeline:

- Manuscript submission deadline: December 31, 2021
- Expected publication date: Autumn 2022

For submission guidelines, see our website:
www.wildlife.ca.gov/Publications/Journal

DID YOU KNOW?

CFWJ is California's longest-running, continuously published scientific journal!

DID YOU KNOW?

The journal is open to submissions from anyone. You don't need to have an affiliation with CDFW.

HAVE QUESTIONS?

Please contact
Ange Darnell Baker,
Editor-in-Chief,
Angela.Baker@wildlife.ca.gov