U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service

Jennifer is a Recovery Coordinator at USFWS, based in Portland, OR. Jennifer provides support to USFWS headquarters, regional, and state offices in the development of species status assessments, recovery plans, and follow-up reviews of listed species. Applying her diverse background in wildlife biology, conservation, environmental restoration, research and science education, Jennifer has been active in coordinating with State and Federal partners to guide species recovery and habitat improvement programs, and promote development options that also conserve fish and wildlife habitat.
